Mis Kooper, Matthew wrott. I well remember when it was announced theen years ago, that an African phant, with immense cars like folding arlor doors, would soon arrive, and the tanagers decided to put me in charge of im. There was great excitement when as boat arrived from Paris, and it seemed is if all the boys and girls in London arned out to see him. The little elephant was a curiosity on account o, his peculiar shape and big ears, and the members of everal learned societies came to examine im. The name I gave him. Jumbo, had so particular significance; in fact, I don't hink I had ever heard it.

From the natives where he was captured I well remember when it was announce

Six years ago Jumbo had turns of fret ulness which alarmed the directors, and He was the counselor of his family and his blunderbusses with which to shoot him if neighborhood, and was as conscientious in rendering opinious about others' matters as old them that elephants were social animals, and that what ailed Jumbo was animals, and that what ailed Jumbo was animals. could go too. Her affection for me was very marked, and when I return to Eng-land I expect to be greeted by her with cordial demonstrations of elephant pleas-ure. She was growing fast when I left her, and she has six or seven years to grow yet. The children call her now, as then, Jumbo's wife.

Jumbo was unlike any other elephant Jumbo was unlike any other elephant in Mr. Barnum's great herd. It would here do to punish him or to force him to obey. Mr. Arstingstall holds sway over nearly fifty great animals (any one of which might pick him up and hurl him as a boy would a rat) solely because they fear him. Not so with Jumbo. He minded me because he loved me. Many years ago it was that he began to show his affection for me, and he never betrayed the confidence I placed in him. Whenever I could make my wishes known to him, he always obeyed. Like a child, he would sometimes be peevish and sullen, would sometimes be peevish and sullen, but at such times he would solicit me to set him, and if I remained near, he would oon get over his ill-feeling.

JUMBO'S SOCIAL TRAITS. We have traveled many thousands of we have traveled many thousands of miles together in the magnificent car built expressly for our use. My sleeping apartment was at one end of the car, and my bed was near Jumbo. Unless I was in it he would not go to sleep, no matter what hour of the night it might be. Some-times I would take a short walk around the city after the exhibition was over for the day, and before the cars started. Jumbo was always awake, and waiting for his bit of cake and beer, or whatever I had. He always shared my beer at night. once I forgot to give him his portion, and after I had dropped asleep he put his trunk around me and lifted me out of my bed. I then recollected the nip of beer I had left in the mug, not enough to wet the old fellow's throat, but as soon as he the old fellow's throat, but as soon as he got it he was satisfied. He was mischievous, too, and often-times he would wait until I had fallen asleep and then carefully take off my bed-clothes without awakening me. If it was asteep and then carefully take on my oed-clothes without awakening me. If it was cold weather I would find the quits crowded in the ventilator overhead. I recollect finding my coat and vest carefully tucked into the grating of the car, out of my reach. I looked for them for half an hour, while Jumbo swung his trunk like an enormous pendulum, as he always did when expressing his delight. Finally he when expressing his delight. Finally he directed my attention to the grating, and at my request gave them back. Many times Jumbo has picked me up and placed me out of danger of various kinds to which he fancied I was exposed, and in the standard instances he saved my life. When several instances he saved my life. When the stampede of elephants took place last year he caught me in his trunk and held me a prisoner between his fore feet until the general alarm had subsided.
